HERRIN IS QUIET IN IRON GRIP OF ARMY OCCUPATION

MACHINE GUNS, RIFLES, HOWITZERS RULE COUN. TRYSIDE.

GUARD SUPREME

Citizen Police Relieved by Military, Through Order of Gen. Foreman.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Herrin, Ill.—Williamson county, for the first time in its feverish history, today felt the iron hand of military discipline and it does not require much imagination to liken it to a bit of country back of the lines in war time France.

In the three principal towns of the county, Herrin, Marion and Johnston City, the streets are flanked with mounted machine guns and howitzers; soldiers with rifles and fixed bayonets patrol the streets; motor trucks loaded with soldiers are driving all over the county, even on the out of the way by-roads, posting placards telling of the military rule.

Red Cross stations have been established and the army buglers' reveille in the morning, instead of the factory and mine whistles, sounds the signal of the awakening of the people for another day. While at night, after taps has been sounded, the noise of the city ceases and the people instinctively turn toward their homes.

Foreman Quits Young.

Major General Milton J. Foreman, commanding general of the 33rd division and in charge of the troops at Herrin, has been relieved by General Young, who has been ordered to take command of the troops at Herrin.

The arrival of the troops saw the departure of the defunct government of the city of Herrin, the system of law enforcement which had been established by the troops, gradually disappeared. At 10 p. m. their leader, S. Glenn Young, left Herrin for Marion. A statement that he had been ordered to take command of the troops at Herrin, was attributed to the general by the troops.

Too Much Gun-Toting.

Among the citizenry only duly authorized peace officers will be permitted to carry the arms and General Foreman said every word in the statement would be enforced to the letter.

"S. Glenn Young's authority in Williamson county has ended," the general declared, and when reminded that after the troops that were here in January departed, Young returned and resumed his ruling and that he might do the same thing again, he said, "When the troops leave Williamson county you may be assured that permanent peace will be a reality and not a dream."

Much of the trouble in this county was attributed by the general to the indiscriminate carrying of guns. He said the troops would search anyone they wish and will confiscate any guns found.

The next conditions he said would necessitate alteration in the habits of the members, as individuals they would have to vote more and more on their personal responsibility and not merely as party politicians.

HOUSE LINES UP FOR REVENUE BILL VOTE ON THURSDAY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Washington—House leaders were busy lining up their forces today for the opening of the floor contest on the revenue bill, which will be taken up Thursday.

Through republican chiefs have declared, after a poll of the delegations, that it appears impossible that the entire rates of the bill, the same as recommended by Secretary Mellon—can stand, proponents of the treasury measure are preparing to fight it out.

Announcement by Representative Longworth, republican floor leader, that a higher maximum surtax rate than the 25 per cent in the bill undoubtedly will have to be adopted, was followed yesterday by a statement of a letter of Secretary Mellon to Representative Dacey, democrat, Ohio, in which it was said that President Coolidge's decision on the tax bill "has indicated he is disposed to a liberal attitude."

Backers of the Mellon income rates are pinning their hopes on obtaining a record vote. With these rates already in the bill, any votes which would be made under normal procedure, Representative Longworth has pointed out, would be an unimpaired and unimpaired amendment were adopted, the original rates would stand.

Old Resident Remembers Lincoln's Visit to City

The old Tallman home, 440 North Jackson street, "X" shows room where Lincoln spent the night when he visited Janesville in 1859.

Miss Mary L. Peterson, 316 East Milwaukee, recalls seeing Lincoln when he attended services at the Congregational church on the occasion of his visit here in 1859. She was a young girl and noticed the stranger who came into the church and sat through a church service. She was with Mr. and Mrs. William M. Tallman. She says that his height and erect carriage impressed her first and when she glimpsed his face she thought, "My, what a homely man!" but at the same time noted something in his expression that attracted her despite the plainness.

She was so strongly impressed that she watched him "every minute during the service" and was very anxious to find out who he was. On inquiry she was told that the stranger was "Mr. Abraham Lincoln, friend of Mr. Tallman's from Illinois who had stopped over to spend Sunday while enroute to Milwaukee to make a speech."

Miss Peterson saw Lincoln again a few years later in Chicago, after his election to the presidency, and has always been proud of the fact that she sat through a church service in Janesville, studying the unusual looking stranger in the Tallman parlor.

Dr. E. E. Laund was a boy with his sister in Monroe at the time of Lincoln's assassination. Owing to telegraphic troubles on the night of the shooting, Monroe had the rumor that Lincoln had been shot. The town was in a state of confusion and until after the next morning, when a special train was run to Janesville to ascertain if the report were true. Practically the entire city of Monroe swarmed about the town square throughout the evening and until after the next morning, when a special train was run to Janesville to ascertain if the report were true. New Arrangement Made in Classified Advertising

Today, the arrangement of the advertisements on the classified page will be slightly changed. It is extremely difficult to handle such a large number of ads to the mutual benefit of the reader and the advertiser. Sometimes, the effect of an advertisement is marred merely because of the lack of a specific heading and other times because of misclassification, and it is deemed desirable to have accurate information has not been embodied in the copy. The Gazette has endeavored recently to analyze this section of the paper and to devise a plan of functioning which will be more efficient in every respect. The arrangement of the classified page today is a result of this study.

Advertisements indexed, General headings will be grouped alphabetically and specific headings will be grouped numerically. As can easily be seen, this is simply following the method generally used in dictionaries, directories and various other tables where there is a great mass of information which must be correctly classified to facilitate easy and intelligent handling. An index will be carried at the beginning of the section and also information regarding the insertion of advertisements and the basis of charging. This will greatly simplify matters for those contemplating the use of classified advertisements. There will be no advertisements misclassified as this

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

NOT SENATE'S BUSINESS, IS REPLY OF PRESIDENT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Washington.—President Coolidge will take "no official recognition" of the senate's resolution advising him to demand the resignation of Secretary Denby because of his connection with the leasing of the reservoir.

The Robinson resolution calling for the naval secretary's resignation was adopted by the senate late yesterday by a vote of 47 to 34, and sent immediately to the White House. A statement announcing the president's refusal to take such action was issued four hours later.

"The dismissal of an officer of the government, such as is involved in the case other than by impeachment," he declared, "is exclusively an executive function."

Only when "special counsel can advise me as to the legality of these leases, and assemble for me the pertinent facts in the various transactions," he said, "will I be able to make a decision on the matter."

Body of King Tut Revealed

Luxor, Egypt.—The lid of Tut-Ankh-Amen's sarcophagus was raised today.

It is understood the body of the king was found within.

When the lid was raised there was revealed the most splendid gilded mummy case ever found in Egypt. It is about three meters long.

The mummy case bears an effigy in relief of the king wearing the "Nemes," or sacred head dress like that of the sphinx, decorated with the head of a hawk and a serpent. The hands are crossed, one bearing a crook scepter and the other a flail.

A pathetic touch is given the effigy by a small group of withered natural flowers set about the gold head dress.

CIRCUIT JUDGE OF FOND DU LAC WILL SIT FOR BELDEN

CASE WILL GET UNDER WITH TRIAL; TESTIMONY NEXT WEEK, BELIEF.

PANEL IS CALLED

Defendant Eager to Proceed With Trial; Testimony Next Week, Belief.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Elkhorn.—Judge Chester A. Fowler, Fond du Lac, will preside at the murder trial of Ernest Kufahl, Watertown, which was postponed Monday until 10 a. m. Wednesday when attorneys for Kufahl filed an affidavit of prejudice against Judge E. B. Belden, Racine.

So no unnecessary delay would be caused by a selection of a jury. Sheriff Wylie has been ordered to summon a special venire of 50 men and women on Wednesday.

The affidavit filed at the opening of the trial at 2 p. m. Monday, alleged that "by virtue of the past prejudice of Judge Belden, the defendant would be unable to receive a fair trial." Under procedure in circuit courts in Wisconsin, this is all that is necessary to secure another magistrate to preside at a trial. It was generally conceded here Monday that the step was taken by the defense to attempt to force the state to try Mrs. Myrtle Schaefer for murder before Kufahl. The state however, is believed equally determined to place Kufahl on trial first.

Wednesday, is believed to be the present term. It is believed beyond question as the next term of the Walworth circuit court is not until next September. The former serviceman has tired of full confinement and has just been decreed by the court that he would soon be tried. He has maintained his innocence and confidence in his acquittal throughout the weeks which have followed his arrest last October.

DOUBLING OF BACK TAXES IS ILLEGAL

State Commission, However, Can Add 10 Per Cent Says Tribunal.

Madison.—Provisions of the state income tax law authorizing the state tax commission to double the taxes for back assessments, was held unconstitutional by the Wisconsin supreme court in a decision handed down Tuesday morning.

Although the court held the double assessment provision unconstitutional, it upheld the authority of the state commission to add 10 per cent to back assessments. Surveys, the court declared, are a part of the income tax and the state commission has authority to assess such taxes.

The decision held that section 71.10 of the income tax law does not discriminate in favor of joint stock associations and that this provision is unconstitutional.

The commission also has power to go back and reassess omitted income to January 1, 1915, the court declared, and thereby withhold assessments of the legislature to set a specific date to which the commission may reassess.

The three year limitation on the tax commission which was in effect before amendments of 1923, is not a statute of limitations in favor of the income owner, it was held. Further, the commission has no authority to consider the statute of limitations in the case of the court declared, in an opinion in the S. Meymann case.

Although the court declared a portion of the income law unconstitutional, it declared the provisions held valid are separable from the remainder of the law and the entire statute is not invalid.

Since the tax commission did not involve the double assessment provision in the pending cases, the taxes which were contested by the plaintiff companies will be required to be paid. It was said.

State Can't Tax Foreign Stock

Madison.—State inheritance tax provisions assessing inheritance taxes upon the transfer of non-resident decedents holding stock in foreign corporations, was held to be unconstitutional and contrary to the fourteenth amendment of the federal constitution in a decision handed down by the Wisconsin supreme court Tuesday morning.

The decision was rendered in connection with the estate of Anne Rockwell Shepherd.

In holding that the state has no authority to levy inheritance taxes on stock in foreign corporations, the court declared that stock corporations are personal property and that such is located at the point of domicile of the owner or at the point of principal business of the company.

ATMANAC WILL AID
RAILROAD AND FARMER
to Get Together

In an apparent effort to dispense with the political mother-in-law, who for years has kept the railroad and the farmer in a divided state of mind, the railroad is now coming forward with an unique offering toward a reconciliation of interests.

This is in the form of an old-fashioned almanac, for years in high repute as a hand book of reliable information. It is called Everyman's Almanac and is being distributed to the farmers in Wisconsin by both the Chicago & Northwestern and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroads, as their "partners in the business of transportation."

This almanac contains authentic figures on the railroad situation—compiled in all instances from government statistics. It also contains general information for both men and women which should insure this book a ready welcome.

It is interesting to note this move on the part of the railroads, which should do much to overcome the misunderstanding of the railroad question by the farmer.

TAKE SALTS IF RHEUMATISM IS BOTHERING YOU

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts to Get Rid of Toxic Acid.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat no sweets for awhile, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid or body waste matter, and is often generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of getting rid of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this toxic acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Epsom Salts, put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste and stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Epsom Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the ash of grapes and lemon juice, combined with Epsom, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. —Advertisement.

ORFORDVILLE

Orfordville—A telegram was received on Saturday morning announcing the death of Mrs. K. N. Grunhuud of Hysham, Mont. The Grunhuuds were former residents of Orfordville, where they owned a farm and resided for many years, going west about 15 years ago. Mrs. Grunhuud was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Mesgerden and was born on the farm just east of the village and lived in the community until with her family she moved to Montana. The funeral services will be held at the Lutheran Valley church of Rock county conducted by the Rev. Ivar Ramsbo, pastor. She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Fredlund of Zumbrota, Minn., and three sons, Iver, Russell and Cornelius of Montana. At the basketball game on Friday evening between the Orfordville high school and the high school of Albany the local five were successful, the score being 18-11. The Orfordville girls' team who played in the preliminaries were defeated. The power on the high line was shut off again on Sunday to allow the workmen to complete work on the line between Orfordville and Janesville.

State Approves "Gas" Tank Site

Approval of plans for the installation of a 12,000-gallon gasoline storage tank near the city water works on South River street has been given by J. L. Florin, Madison, state superintendent of fire prevention, and Frank R. Daniel, Milwaukee, chief engineer for the Wisconsin Insurance Bureau, if the insurance rating association. The tank will be placed southeast of the pumping station, about 30 feet from the west bank of the river, and will be 18 feet or more distant from any structure as required by law, it is announced. The first shipment of valves and piping has been received from Milwaukee, but the tank itself has not arrived. It probably will not be erected until the frost is out of the ground, as it will be necessary to build a concrete foundation for it.

Question Whether Constables Are Still Elective

Whether or not Janesville will continue to elect constables as in the past or have them appointed by the city manager is a question that has arisen in connection with plans for the 1924 city election. The coming April. It is pointed out that all other officers are now appointed by the manager, but there is a misunderstanding as to whether constables should be classed as city workers or state officers. The question has been submitted to City Attorney Roger G. Cunningham for a ruling.

SOLITE

A PERFECT GASOLINE

Is One Year Old

And during that year it has won a place for itself in the minds of thousands of motorists who desired quick, snappy action from their machines, and who had not been able to get it through the use of so-called "high-test" gasolines.

For years, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been importuned to put a high-test gasoline on the market, but refused to do so because they knew their patrons could not secure full power from any gasoline similar to the so-called "high-test" gasolines then on the market.

About one year ago, announcement was made that a light, volatile gasoline, so constituted as to drive the piston the full stroke under power, had been developed in the laboratories of our refinery. This product was placed on the market in Milwaukee, and a few other places, under the trade-mark name "SOLITE—A Perfect Gasoline."

It took hold at once and has been growing in popularity ever since. Solite will start instantly—it will cause your car to pick-up quickly—and yet, unlike the so-called "high-test" gasolines, it gives you all the power and speed your engine is capable of developing. If you have not tried Solite and found out how good it is, you have missed a real motoring sensation.

WALWORTH COUNTY

ELKHORN

MRS. GRANT HARRINGTON.
Elkhorn — Judge E. B. Bolden, Racine, gave an address before the Kiwanis club, Monday. His subject was "Abraham Lincoln." The subject was a most interesting one. The speaker was a member of the Kiwanis club, composed of Messrs. Lighton, Uppling, Renner and Hughes furnished a number of selections, among them "Sweet By and By," composed by J. P. Webster, years ago a resident of Elkhorn. Joseph Webster, a son of the composer, was present at the meeting.

The research committee of the Wisconsin Teachers' Association is making a school survey of four counties in the state, Walworth county being one of them. The survey will cover particularly the opportunities offered to children in the rural schools. The rate of literacy is the lowest in Walworth county of any county in the state, and this is one reason for its selection.

Mrs. Edw. C. House was given a surprise Monday evening, by a group of friends who spent a social evening with games. Misses Elen Ketchum and Gladys Ellsworth planned the party.

The Elkhorn Lumber company will be represented in Milwaukee every day this week of the Wisconsin Retail Lumber Dealers Convention beginning Tuesday. Edward Warfield and Daniel Ward attended the first day. John Dunphy will go Wednesday, and also attend the regular monthly meeting of the local company. B. B. Kraus and Glen Blakely will attend on Thursday, the closing day.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Adkins with Misses Cynthia Stokes and Dorothy Cameron returned home Saturday from a week in Chicago, staying at Institute Place and attending the religious conference Mrs. Adkins who was once a student at the Moody school, found remarkable growth since she had last visited the place. There are now 1000 students, about 20 buildings in the group with new dormitories and underground passages connecting many buildings. Mr. Adkins took advantage of the singing with much new music. The closing day was Missionary Day and a symposium was held with returned missionaries, children of the foreign workers and foreigners who are studying in the school. In the responses, 20 different languages were used as each spoke in our tongue. Moody Institute has the largest volunteer band in the world and the Elkhorn girls found the work and ideas they got inspiration.

It Never Failed Him

Veteran railroad engineer, with 56 years of unbroken service to his credit, declares Tanlac proved equal to emergency and restored his strength and energy when he was badly run-down in health.

John F. McWaters, veteran railroad man, of 447 East Fair St., Atlanta, Ga., who is credited with 56 years' unbroken service as an engineer on the Atlanta & West Point, recently paid high tribute to Tanlac.

"Several years ago," said Mr. McWaters, "I became so run-down I looked like my chain of service might be broken before I could run out my fifty-year period. However, I resorted to Tanlac to set me right, and Tanlac proved fully equal to the emergency, quickly heading off the trouble and bringing my strength and energy right up to normal.

"Since then, when I have felt a little run-down, or 'off my feet,' as the railroad boys say, I have taken Tanlac, and it never fails to do the work. I am using Tanlac now as a general tonic, and my health stays fine."

Is Your Wife Marooned During the Day?

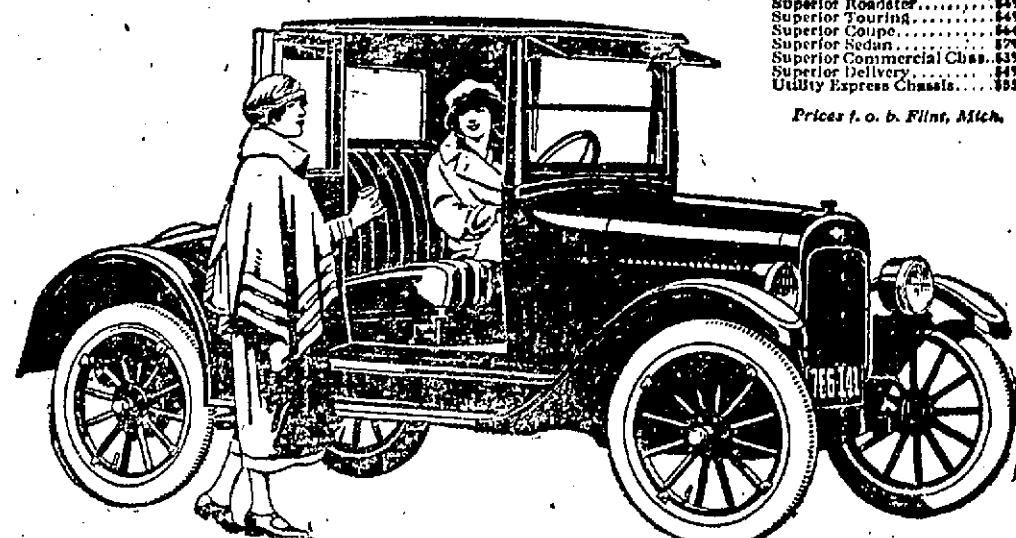

Have you ever considered what is meant by the hundreds of cars parked in the business sections during working hours?

Most of them carried business men to work, leaving their wives and families at home, marooned because the family's one car is in daily use by the husband and father.

That is one reason why architects and builders now find that all suburban and many city homes must be provided with twin garages. The Chevrolet Utility Coupé with high-grade body makes an ideal extra car, especially in combination with a 5-passenger touring or sedan.

The wife finds it of every day utility for shopping, calling, taking the children to school in bad weather, etc.

Its price and upkeep are low yet the quality is high.

Ever Increasing Public Confidence and Volume of Calls Enables Up To

25c

PER PASSENGER ANYWHERE IN THIS CITY

Here are the 3 reasons why we operate on the flat rate of 25c per passenger anywhere in the city.

1. SMALL PROFIT
It is easy to assume that our profit per call is exceptionally small, but with the large number of calls we handle daily our low rate continues in effect without loss to us.
2. SMALL EXPENSE
Chevrolet Taxis are economical to operate. This, together with our other operation expenses, which are smaller than many taxi concerns, also enables us to give the public the benefit of our very low rate.
3. INCREASING VOLUME OF BUSINESS
Our volume of calls which are growing daily, are one of the biggest contributing factors to the low rate we charge. Volume enables us to operate on a lower charge basis and at less profit per call.

—AN APOLOGY—

During the recent bad weather when roads were blocked, our drivers, who are paid a certain amount for each call, found it impossible to make a living wage with each call taking around 30 minutes. During that exceptionally bad period we found it necessary to charge 50c on some of the distant calls but when roads are open and in fairly decent shape, our regular charge of 25c will be made.

The Closing Days of Lincoln's Life

Fifty-nine years ago the Civil War was in its twilight. Whatever had shone for the Southern Confederacy was sinking from sight. The Mississippi river, dividing the southern states, was open from St. Louis to the gulf. All the chief ports, gulf and Atlantic, were in the hands of the Union armies or navy. Pensacola, Mobile, Savannah, Charleston and Galveston were inaccessible for the scattered remnant of the blockade runners. Lee was starving in Richmond and Petersburg was growing more untenable. Desertions from the army were by the hundreds. Joe Johnston, with the ragged remnants, retreating before Tecumseh Sherman, in a hopeless attempt to join Lee, was cut off by Sheridan and other armies scattered along the southern boundary of Virginia. Long red and black scars cut the south in great gashes where ridding armies had swept through like a beam of hell and torn the last vestige of hope from Confederate breasts. Bitterness and despair, sadness and poverty, mourning and death—the slaying of the first born repeated—was the lot of the south. Blacks, many thousands of them following Union armies, presented a problem which made each commander's task for each mile more serious. Down near Richmond was Grant, taciturn, silent, stubborn. Destiny was even then reaching out to him with a wreath of victory. In Richmond the civil government of the Confederacy was close to disbandment. The immediate possibility of the capture of Richmond was already understood and ways of escape were being planned. There were left a few dollars in gold and that was to be sent south. Other money was as worthless as the German marks are today. Indeed it was the twilight in the winter of 1865.

The Confederacy actually took to its death bed when Abraham Lincoln, after one of the most bitter campaigns ever known, was overwhelmingly elected president of the United States. That was when Jefferson Davis and other leaders began to see the sun of hope setting on ambition. The North too, shocked at the sanguinary losses in the Wilderness campaign, with Spotsylvania and Cold Harbor and their bloody toll, had begun to understand that Grant might lose battles but won campaigns.

The task had been great. There was but one single fighting ship in the navy in a northern port. In 1861. From that one unit there had grown a great navy for the time. There was no army. It had been worn down to a shred in 1861 but in 1865 it was a great veteran fighting machine of freedom. The task had been titanic; it was nearly done. If there was exultation in the soul of Lincoln, he showed nothing of it. In those last sixty days of the war there was much to think about. He spoke something of it at the last meeting of the cabinet in the morning of his last day, April 14, 1865. He looked forward to a nation unified and cemented again in a bond of union. That was his vision:

"Enough lives have been sacrificed; we must extinguish our resentments if we expect harmony and union."

That was the very essence of the soul of the Lincoln who was looking forward to a reunited nation, when the birds should "build a nest in the cannon's mouth" and roses bloom over land scarred by battle. There was no bitterness, no revenge planned; no lurking hatreds in the soul of the man in the White House. Strange irony in fate that he should have died at the hand of a man obsessed with insane hatred. In those closing days of the life of Lincoln we see no longer the man worried over the big but comparatively trifling things of war. He was more concerned now with the responsibilities of peace. However true it may be it still is true that "Pence hath her victories no less than war." There is no record plan, no papers or documents to show what Lincoln intended, if he had worked out that far in his proposals for the future, but we know that "It was time for resentments to be extinguished." That covers a world of details.

We are prone to think of Lincoln as an old man. He was called affectionately "Old Abe." Yet he was only 61 when elected to the presidency and only 56 when he died. He celebrated his last birthday 59 years ago today. His visage was marked by griefs of his people—his own common people. Yet he was strong in physique, seldom ill even for a day. His early life of hardship, his natural strength of body, his clean living, his immunity to great fatigue, gave him an enormous reserve force for the superman task he was called upon to perform. He was beginning the fifth year as president, after fighting the battles of war, with renewed vigor for the impending battle of peace. The greatest thing about Lincoln in those closing days of the Civil War was his magnificent unthought and his gentle humanity. That he was not destined to go farther, to dwell in the land of peace and the union of his making as a climax of his own work, may have been for the best. Moses, leading the Children of Israel from the bondage of Egypt never saw the Promised Land. Jehovah spoke "This is the land which I swear unto Abraham, unto Isaac and unto Jacob, saying, I will give it unto thee; I have caused thee to see it with thine eyes, but thou shalt not go over thither."

Lincoln saw a land of peace, war ended, conflict over, the sea calmed, the rusting gun and the sheathed sword, and then, this work accomplished, he folded his hands and rested. It may

The Working Woman's Problem

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Washington.—Working women often have two full-time jobs, while working men usually have but one. That is the plain fact of the matter and it constitutes the greatest problem of the working woman.

So says Miss Mary Anderson, director of the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor, for 18 years of her life a shoe factory worker, for seven years a leader and organizer of women in industry, and now head of a staff of expert investigators for the government, whose duty it is to report facts as to conditions surrounding the working women of the United States and to formulate standards for the betterment of those conditions.

Housework and child care are as exhausting as any factory work or office work a woman can do. Modern industry and the drive of business competition have their effects upon the nerves and physique of men and women both, but the prevailing problem for women in this day and age—for women in the levels of life where earnings and income are small—is how not to work double time.

"It is easiest to illustrate the problem," says Miss Anderson, "if we consider the married woman who works. But we must not forget that even the young girls have home responsibilities and are expected to help mother with the housework and the children, although very seldom is this expected of the boys of the family. The girls more often turn in their pay envelopes unopened than the boys. However, the married women are the most obvious case in point.

Statistics thus far compiled show that there are nearly 2,000,000 wage earning women in the United States who are married. The very fact that they are working shows they have need of their earnings and are not able to employ help to do their housework such as cooking, sweeping, scrubbing, dusting, dishwashing, bed making, sewing, mending and numerous other tasks to make a full day's work.

If they have children, as most of these women have, their home duties are multiplied. So the married factory worker or office worker must do these things and her factory or office tasks also. She does them in the early morning before she goes to the factory or office and in the evening after she gets home. She could stand either one of these jobs, no doubt, if it were her only job, but she has them both and she can not stand that very long. It tells on her health and her children's health and on the happiness of the whole family because she is human and not a machine.

Much has been heard recently to the effect that the conditions of modern industry and business life are unfitting women for wifehood and motherhood, and Miss Anderson was asked whether her investigations indicated that such is the case.

"An anybody demonstrate that women are being unfitted for wifehood and motherhood?" countered the director of the Women's Bureau. "I do not think they are in any other sense than you would say their health and happiness in every respect are endangered by the double strain they are under."

"A person who thinks that modern women are becoming unfitted for wifehood and motherhood is probably thinking of domestic life as it was in the days of the pioneer and hunter and farmer. We must change the focus to the modern background and realize that either the home of the working woman must make fewer demands upon her or the conditions under which she works outside her home must be adapted to her needs. We can not go on demanding of women that they be efficient on two jobs, each a full-time job."

This government expert points out that there are four essentials which must be allowed for every working woman's day. The first, of course, is work; the second is more work, in the form of home duties; the third is rest; and the fourth is recreation or education. Whether the average woman in industry is able to make the necessary allowances for these items depends chiefly on one thing—the hours she must spend in the factory.

In the United States, factory hours are regulated in many different ways. Often it is the employer who decides arbitrarily that a certain number of hours shall constitute a day's work. Sometimes the workers take a hand, through their organizations, and make a definite agreement with the employer as to how long they shall work. More often, however, especially in the case of women, it is the state itself which sets a limit on the length of the working day and week.

In spite of the constant efforts which are being made by progressive employers, by the workers, and by the authorities of the various states, there are still places in this country where women's work begins at six o'clock in the morning and lasts until five or six o'clock at night. For the past five years the Women's Bureau has been collecting figures to show just what are the hours which women work in industry, and sometimes their agents report mills or factories where the machinery is started shortly after five o'clock in the morning and is not stopped for ten or even twelve hours. When plants are running overtime longer hours are worked.

One mill was reported as starting at six o'clock in the morning and during the busy season running until eight or nine o'clock at night. Women workers who have to stand a strain of this sort have little chance to make of their lives anything but a mere existence. An ambitious girl may feel that she does not want to be a factory worker all her life, but once she gets into the grind of a 10-hour day in the factory there will be no energy left for anything else.

Miss Anderson says this is the reason so many states have undertaken to regulate women's hours. It is both uneconomic and unsocial to let a woman be a factory worker and nothing else. Women are full-fledged citizens and are expected to do their share in the life of the community. They are largely responsible for the high standards of health and education by which the people of this country set so much store, and the States have recognized this fact and are helping them to carry out their responsibilities.

"We have the right to expect that every woman in this land of ours shall take her proper place as a citizen to help solve the problems of the nation," says Miss Anderson. "But in order that she may do this it is our duty and responsibility to help her solve the problems confronting her in her industrial life, and in her home life, so that she may take her place as a responsible citizen."

"In order that life may be freer and filled with interest and understanding for all, there must be less of the workers' lives demanded by industry and more obligations so there will be more time and opportunity for education which will give women workers a chance to take an intelligent part in the affairs of the nation."

CHARACTER.

There are worse hurts to fear than failure's sting.

The stamp of petty malice and the stain of rank injustice for a trifling gain—

These greater shame than honest losses bring. What though for me the checks may never ring?

What though I miss what business might attain?

Heed high to face the world I will remain, I will not murder truth to be a king.

Lord, I would sell my strength for what 'tis worth.

Would sell what skill I have in markets fair, But not for all the glories of the earth.

The stain of rank dishonor would I dare, I'll fight a man's fight, but if I must fail,

My character I'll keep. That's not for sale! (Copyright, 1924, by Edgar A. Guest)

HOROSCOPE

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1924

Venus and Mercury dominate in benefic aspect in the early morning hours of this day, according to astrology. Neptune is adverse later.

Venus smiles on love and lovers who should plight troth before the noon hours.

This should be a lucky wedding day, even though it is the thirteenth, for there is a sign making for sympathy and congeniality.

The actor or actress who can sign a contract when the day is young should benefit greatly.

Theaters are to profit through some sort of publicity that focuses on them the attention of the press and producers.

All the signs for the coming year point to the stage as most fortunate, since the theater is to be recognized, as an educational force on the level with libraries and lecture rooms.

Women are to found many playhouses in the United States within the next ten years and they are to be leaders in all that pertains to good drama, the seers foretell.

Because the age has come to a place where spiritual forces must be invoked to overcome material conditions women are to gain the ascendancy, astrologers predict.

Neptune continues to exercise a sinister influence and increase of treachery in business and social relations is foretold.

This is an unlucky day for starting on sea voyages; again a terrible ocean disaster is presaged by the stars.

Fresh decisions and unpremeditated moves may bring trouble today and they who are wise will exercise deliberation in all things.

The Moon today enters Gemini, a masculine sign ruled by Mercury and governing the hands, arms, shoulders, lungs and nervous system.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be careful in all money matters during the coming year. Fire and thieves menace. The year should be on the whole a favorable one.

Children born on this day probably will be generous, fond of spending money too freely and able to acquire wealth easily.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author.

THE ONLY DISEASE CAUSED BY COLD

Although there still is no such disease as a "cold" in the head or any other part of the body, there is no denying that exposure to cold, wet feet and the like cause one disease, which is the only disease cold ever does cause, namely, frostbite. The early winter has been so mild this year that I shall take just a slight dig in the feet for my topic. That is, I shall.

Childhood is mild or first degree frostbite. It may be compared with mild or cold degree burn, which is one that reddens the skin and causes considerable smarting, pain or itching but does not blister. If blisters form it is a second degree burn. Sometimes blisters form in children. If the burn is so severe or deep as to destroy tissue, it is a third degree burn and that would be comparable with severe frostbite which destroys the frozen tissues and produces gangrene.

In most instances childhood consists of erythematous (flushed or reddened) feet about the heels and borders of feet, or perhaps upon the fingers, the ears or the nose. The reaction affected is cold, tender, and when exposed to heat or to frost or to heat or to frost, it occurs chiefly in persons who have a poorly trained or over-cooled vasomotor apparatus—persons who have the fancy that the body must be maintained by the amount of clothing worn and by the temperature of the air and who consequently weaken their own vasomotor apparatus by relying too much upon the artificialities which, after all, have nothing to do with the warmth of the body.

Having thrown the foregoing argument out of my mind, I am going to do an imitation of a health officer who teaches the simple public that "all so-called colds are caused by infection from person to person" and their warning the still simpler public to be careful not to get caught in a draft or go out without heavy underwear and to wear a coat and hat and to wear of nice woolen stockings as a means of preventing childhood. This isn't very inconspicuous as it might seem at first blush, or after all, I don't frankly say at the beginning of this talk that childhood is caused by cold. The individual who is susceptible to, or, if you'll be sure to read, to frostbite, is not to be treated by his feet—we've got to treat him gently, cuddle him along. Those of us who do not believe in taking cold in the feet are going to say that the feet are any of the rest of our body in wool if we don't think it comfortable. The amount and kind of clothing which is most comfortable to the individual is certainly most hygienic for that individual in all circumstances.

COLLEGE TESTS REVEAL SURPRISES

Both Extremes in Students
Found by Whitford at Milton College.

Surprising facts concerning school systems throughout the country have been unearthed through intelligence tests given the freshman class of Milton college this year by Prof. J. Whitford, Whitford, professor of education and psychology.

With students from as far east as Rhode Island and as far west as California, Professor Whitford has given an intelligence test to each of the 150 students. The tests showed that pupils coming from a large number of widely separated schools and states were of about the same mental ability but that schools have a wide latitude in the valuation of pupils' work and preparation for college.

Both extremes found. It was found that of these matriculating, a small group was on the borderline of being incapable of pursuing a college course. The great middle group was made up of the other extreme, those with superior mental ability. The great middle group has been the normal for the test services and all those should pass in their college work, Professor Whitford states.

Tests are spreading. "This scientific method of evaluating the character of school work has been almost everywhere put out in the elementary school, and the movement is slowly getting a footing in the higher institutions of learning. Colleges and universities have long insisted upon a standardization of work in the preparatory school, but have not always been so ready to have the evaluating process applied to the top of the ladder. Always the American school system has been almost conservative in its attitude towards the movement under discussion and are banking a careful study of all that is best in the field of educational measurement.

Will prevent slumps. "The use of intelligence and achievement tests in classifying and promoting pupils will tend to cut down the number of slumps as well as of hold in school cases, which normally would leave as soon as the law will permit. The usual method of reclassification into slow, normal and rapid groups gives each pupil a fair chance for further study, and equalizes educational opportunity.

The United States commissioner of education has completed studies showing that only 63 of each 100 pupils who enter the fifth grade in the elementary school graduate from the grammar department, only 17 finish high school and but two graduate from college. School authorities are striving in every way possible to prevent this great mortality; the curriculum has been enriched, the intermediate or junior high school has been established, college entrance examinations have been made more sane and practical and we are seeing the results all along the line in the greatly increased attendance, especially in the secondary schools and colleges. If we are to have a better educated and progress in the future, predictive and diagnostic testing must be used to correlate with the achievement and the application to the educational system."

POLICE MAY GET SALARY INCREASE

the bookkeeper and a raise of $200 for the health officer, are provided in the tentative 1924 salary ordinance as presented before the city council at its regular meeting, Monday night. Provision is made for increasing the manager's salary $1,200 on Sept. 1. Reductions proposed would actually offset the increases, so that the suggested ordinance is merely a readjustment and makes no radical change in the grand totals.

Increases of $600 a year in salaries of the city engineer and city attorney are recommended, while proposed reductions of salaries of officers in the fire department would total approximately $500, and the sewer's salary would be cut from $1,600 to $600.

Up for Passage Feb. 25.
After the ordinance recommended by the council had been read by City Manager Henry Traxler, it was agreed to lay the matter over for action to be taken at an adjourned regular meeting, Feb. 25, preceding the regular meeting of that date. The ordinance calls for the new salaries to become effective May 1, 1924.

The city manager is now receiving $6,000 a year and it is proposed to increase this to $7,200 when he completes his first year of service, Sept. 1. In the fire department would be a total of $7,100, of which $2,000 is for the department of finance, the clerk-treasurer's salary would remain unchanged, $2,400; the assessor, $1,200; and bookkeeper, $1,600, instead of $1,200.

Public Works Department.
All salaries are prefixed by the words "not more than," the understanding being that the manager may employ at less than the amount specified if he chooses.

Changes proposed in the department of public works salary list would include the pay of City Engineer C. W. Kereh, Water Works Engineer, H. A. Gilkey, and Street Engineer Joseph Lustig, giving each $7,900. Under the present scale, the city engineer receives $3,600, the water works engineer, $3,000 and the street engineer, $2,400. The provision in Mr. Gilkey's salary is that he receive $2,400 as water works engineer and $600 as city sealer.

Department of Safety.
In the department of public safety, the salaries of the fire chief and police chief will continue at $2,400 each. No change would be made in the salary of the assistant police chief, now $1,800, but the pay of the assistant fire chief would be reduced from $1,920 to $1,500, equalizing the two offices. The fire department mechanic's pay would be cut from $1,920 to $1,500, and no provision is made for raising pay for an electrician in the fire department.

For the past year firemen have been receiving $125 a month the first six months and $130 the second six months and $145 the second year. In the police department the scale has been $115, $120 and $125. Under the 1924 proposal, both departments would be the same with the following scale: Firemen and policemen, first six months, $115; second six months, $125; second year, $130; and after second year, $145. The measure means salary increases of $1,650 to $1,680 each for seven policemen at present.

A salary of $2,200 is provided for the plumbing building and electrical inspector, the same as in the past.

Health Department.

OLD RESIDENTS REMEMBER WHEN LINCOLN WAS HERE

The Daily Morning Gazette of Oct. 4, 1858, used nearly two columns of the six and half columns given to reading matter, to give an account of the speech of "Hon. A. Lincoln" before the Republican club, in Janesville, Saturday night, Oct. 1. The article explains that when it was learned that Mr. Lincoln was to address the people of Beloit Saturday afternoon, Mr. Tallman volunteered to proceed to the place with his carriage and endeavor to induce him to address the people of Janesville in the evening. In consequence of his being unable to do so, Mr. Lincoln would comply a notice was posted that he had been invited and probably would attend. The Republican club had a meeting scheduled for Saturday night, according to an announcement appearing in the Gazette, Sept. 30.

The Gazette carried the following announcement, at the head of the editorial column Sept. 30 and Oct. 1. "The Hon. Abraham Lincoln will address the Republicans of Beloit, Saturday afternoon, October 1st, at 2 o'clock." The issue of Sept. 30, also carried a story about the opening of the Wisconsin state fair on Sept. 22, and states that "Hon. Abraham Lincoln delivered the annual address."

Created Unusual Impression.
The Gazette report of Mr. Lincoln's address in Janesville comments in part as follows:

"When Mr. Lincoln appeared he was greeted with cheers, and was introduced to the people by Dr. Treat, the president of the Republican club. Many present saw Mr. Lincoln for the first time, and as his person is tall, lean and wiry, his complexion dark, his physiognomy homely, and his phrenological development being peculiar, he attracted much attention. His style of oratory is plain and unpretending, and his recollections sometimes awkward. No one can forget Mr. Lincoln, his manner or his logic. You are compelled to revolve his ideas over and over in your mind whether you will or not."

Mrs. Helen M. Dostwick recalls hearing of Mr. Lincoln's visit here, but doesn't recall seeing him. Her brother, Marshall Bailey, was in Washington in the Ford theater at the time President Lincoln was shot. Mr. Bailey was sitting so near the president, that some of blood spattered on his suit, according to a letter written to his sister soon after the assassination.

ARCHIE WARD, sporting editor of the Rockford Morning Star, is out to promote more recreation for the folks down in the Great City. He points out to his fellow citizens that on the eight hour basis of present living—eight hours for work, eight hours for sleep and eight hours for leisure—there are 60,000 hours of spare time every day in his town. He argues that time is spent to the advantage of the man, woman and child, but it is not to the advantage of the community. He argues that with the growth of Rockford as an industrial center, the need for recreation has grown with the greater concentration of the workers. Rockford is entering gradually into greater factory life. On the basis of its present population, there are 100,000 hours of leisure in this city each 24 hours, which in a year make the tremendous total of 784,000 hours, or 2,443,428 days, or 6,667 years, or the lives of 66,667 people at three score and ten. Take it this way: Thirty-seven people can do many things in their lifetime. What kind of leisure do these 37 spend in their lives of leisure? Not 11. In fact, there are that more of these 37, 66,667 years, be given to development of recreation with its benefits to physique, mind, character and social contact?

23 Pin Doubles Champs Uncrowned; Pluck 1,098

LEADERS SIT FIRM WITH NO CHANGES IN ANY DIVISION

Repeaters in the bowling tournament world just "ain't," that's all. This has been demonstrated five times in the 1924 classic of the Wisconsin Bowling association.

The latest to prove the contention were C. Hoyer and Dr. T. O'Donovan of Milwaukee, sports of the doubles headgear for the past year. Like all the other champions—the five-man, the singles and the all-events—this yoke of kegelers fell by the gutter on Monday and passed into ancient history.

Doing their stuff in the early afternoon, the pair fell 270 pins short of the mark they set up at Green Bay a year ago, by totalling this tourney but 1,098. They likewise are 270 below the present leaders for 11, Gosssett and P. Dunsen of Menasha, who are leading by the same count that Hoyer and O'Donovan attained 12 months ago.

Not Even in Money

A score of 1,098 will not even bring any of the buzzards into the net of the former champs. Though there are 234 prizes in the two-man division, none of them will be for this couple. On Monday alone, 16 bowlers broke 1,000. Five-men, doubles, singles and all-events are just as they were when the last shift withdrew from the scene on Sunday night.

There were a goodly number of scores turned in that will call for gold. Closest to plugging in the doubles were W. Oldenburg and J. Schenck, who combined aggregate, 1,188 as their combined aggregate. This count is 14 below 10th. Neither of the pair hit an honor, but they totalled nearly a 11 k. Oldenburg, 589; Schenck, 599.

The former chalked games of 203-201 and the latter, after starting with 164, plucked 202 and a big one of 203.

Two scores of 1,186 were turned in, one of them by G. Hugin and J. Fisher of Milwaukee and the other by W. Hoyer and Dr. O'Donovan of Milwaukee. The latter's score was 589, while Hugin had a middle game of 235.

Druggists Get 2821

Five men were just as uneventful. Closest to the leaders among the money scores was a 2,821, put together by the Goran Drog, Milwaukee, with games of 295, 292 and 234. This is a creditable performance and might have been considerably larger had not the team been holed down by a throw of 10 in the first game. Dr. T. O'Donovan, of doubles title game, was high man with 612.

Some of the 200s in the result, were some good 200s. In the result, The Goran aggregate is 56, maples lower than 20th position.

Three pins behind this team came the local Madison team, Milwaukee, with 2,818. A first game of 866 served to set that quietest back from plugging for they had others of 200 and 201. The Madison team, knocked off the sticks for 624, sweeping a 227 in his start, tumbling to 172 and coming back up again with 225. The man that followed him, S. Michalski, was teamed with a 136 that spelled disaster.

A number of Janesville teams occupied the drives on various shifts. The best count was 2,723 by the Rock County National team No. 10.

The singles high is 651.

The singles played all alone on Monday for their scores did nothing and so far as the leaders are concerned, they will never know where they were tumbled on the slides.

The best that was witnessed was a 621 by G. Peterson of Appleton, after getting 227 and 226, he ended with Oldenburg best was a 631 by W. Oldenburg, who made up for games of 193 and 190 with a 216 in his closing. J. Gates, Milwaukee, tripped 248 in his initial game, but faded out with 176 and 162 for 586.

The local Rotary club has 10 teams on the drives on the 6 p. m. Tuesday, which means plenty of noise. In addition to other Janesville teams, there will be teams from Milwaukee, Madison, Slaughter and Fort Atkinson. A team worth watching will be the Milwaukee bowling club, which is playing the visitors from the Cream City Arcade home league.

BRODHEAD DEFEATS CRACK ARGYLE TEAM

Brodhead—Winning all eight games they had played this season, Argyle High school basketball team came to Brodhead, expecting to win again, but lost 6-5. An unusually large and noisy audience was present in the first half. Brodhead made four points, out-basketed and out-fouled, with the visitors flitting every move. Argyle set so fast a pace in the second half they were unable to hold it and Brodhead slipped in another point on fouls, the visitors following with a basket and three on fouls.
